The Soloist, David Nalden, is Senior Lecturer in Violin at the Auckland Conservatorium of Music. He was a violin student of Winifred Stiles and after gaining a B.A. degree and winning a Belgian Government Scholarship he went to Brussels Conservatoire to further his violin studies. After graduating with First Prize Diplomas in Violin and Chamber Music he studied further in Italy and gained orchestral and chamber music experience in Europe. In 1969 he was appointed Professor at the Guildhall School of Music in London, and in 1974 returned to New Zealand to take up his present appointment.
